Art Unit: 1754

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 6,7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over WO 00/60680. Yamada 6,632,566 is an English equivalent to WO '680.

WO '680 suggests the instantly claimed  $\text{LiMPO}_4$  having the instantly claimed particle size of less than 1 micron. See col. 10, sample 2, col. 12, lines 13-18 and Fig. 6 of Yamada '566. The instantly claimed capacity also is suggested. See col. 9 of Yamada '566.

Where the claimed and prior art product(s) are identical or substantially identical, the burden of proof is on applicant to establish that the prior art product(s) do not necessarily or inherently possess the characteristics of the instantly claimed product(s), see In re Best, 195 USPQ 430.

Applicant's arguments filed June 28, 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that Yamada's sample 2 shows an average particle size value greater than 1 micron and teaches that sintering at less than  $400^\circ\text{C}$  produces particles with reduced capacity and therefore teaches away from smaller particles resulting from sintering at under  $400^\circ\text{C}$ .

However Yamada clearly teaches  $\text{LiFePO}_4$  particles having a size less than 1 micron in Fig. 6 as samples 1,2 and 3 with sample 2 providing the most particles having a size less than 1 micron. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to separate particles that are less than 1 micron from those greater than 1 micron by conventional methods to provide a group of particles having an average particles size less than 1 micron. Furthermore, it is noted that the size of an article is not ordinarily a matter of invention, In re Rose 165 USPQ 237. Also, Fig. 6 shows that almost 50% of the particles in sample 2 are less than 1 micron. This is so close to that instantly claimed as to be patentably indistinct. See MPEP 2144.05. With regard to sintering at under 400°C it is noted that sample 2 of Yamada teaches sintering at 400°C which renders this argument unpersuasive.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Steven Bos whose telephone number is 571-272-1350. The examiner can normally be reached on M-F, 9AM to 6PM.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Stan Silverman can be reached on 571-272-1358. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is 571-273-8300.
